

Dear Chairman Powell and Commissioners:

I urge you to reconsider your decision to bring the issue of broadcast ownership up before the Senate. Policy as it currently stands limits the number of broadcast outlets that one company can own, and the limit should stay in place. My fellow Americans and I do not want a few big corporations controlling our access to information and entertainment. The FCC should maintain current laws that ensure a diverse and competitive media.

The American public, as well as many of your colleagues in Washington, D.C., have been telling you this over and over in recent weeks; but you continue to press forward with this issue, doggedly avoiding public debate. This is not how democracy works; this is not how America works. I urge you again to fulfill your charge by acting in the best interest of Americans and not consider a change to current laws that limit broadcast outlet ownership. Thank you.
